IN A HURRY.-A Detroit Alderman was rather puzzled yesterday by a call from a stranger, who had a carpet-bag-in each hand and a malicious look in his eyes. He let the carpet-bag drop, wiped off his forehead, and wanted to know if the man before him was an Alderman.

"I am," was the reply.
"Perfectly responsible, I s'pose?" was

"I suppose I am."
"I suppose I am."
"Well, sir," continued the stranger
"down here at the depot some one hit me on the neck with a stone."
"Did, ch?" sir, he did, and I estimate the

"Yes, sir, he did,, and I estimate the damage at $25."
"I am very sorry,? remarked the Alderman. "It's no way to use a stranger to hit him on the neck."
"Of course it isn't, but I don't care for your soft words—I want my $25."
"Why, I have nothing to do with it., I didn't hit you."
"I know you didn't, but you help run

"I know you didn't, but you help run this town, don't you? Some one must be responsible. I am not the kind of a man responsible. I am not the kind of a man to be hit on the neck and go right along without saying a word."

"I tell you what you do," said the Al-derman, after a little reflection. "You go derman, after a little reflection. "You go to the Mayor and get an order on me for the money and I'll pay it;"

"That's angelic and all right,' repiled the man, and he steered for the City Hall. He began blowing around to some of the idlers in the corridors, and they sent him to a saloon on Monroe avenue 'to see the Mayor's brother.' He must have found some one there, and must have had some words. Those, watching him saw his big satchel come out first, then he slid out after it, hair on end and chin all bruised up, and as he reached the curbstone his small satchel hit him on the back with a loud 'chug.' He went down Woodward avenue stepping fast and high, and at venue stepping fast and Congress street ran against a woman and explained:

stranger, who inquired, "Can you inform me what effect lemonade has on the mental system?" "It has a good effect, where you pay for it," was the reply. "And where you don't?" "The effect is then transferred from the mental to the physical system, and you go out of here with something kicking you forty times per minute." "Thanks, sir," bowed the stranger, backing out; "I am not thirsty, and I never did believe in summer drinks." He went down the street, stole two harvest apples, and found the effect to be just the same as if he had taken lemonade. When the "machine" ceased kicking, the stranger remarked, "Between being kicked for three cents or for ten cents it is my duty to be kicked for ten cents, and that shall be my motto hereafter." stranger, who inquired, "Can you inform

How a Large Amount of Hidden Money Was Found. A correspondent of the Pall Mail Ga-"There is a curious case : zette says: "There is a curious case at present before the Court of Appeal of Donai, M. He is every clear in his knowledge of the fight, and has made a statement. He says he went down with two other Crows and went into the action with Coater. The General, he says, kept down the river on the north bank four miles, after Rano had crossed to the south side above. Canter's object was to cut off the coater of the coater o gown, and animating the whole by the office boy, a very respectable living skeleon was produced, which on Monday had the desired effect in ridding the premises of the intruders. But another effect was since produced not entirely anticipated. The skeleton was set in a closet near the door for future use. Yesterday the doctor was himself startled from his front office by the rattling of dry bones followed by an unearthly yell, as though his ghostship had 'taken on mortality' again; and rushing out the doctor discovered a fellow on the floor nearly scared to death. He had stolen in and opened the closet He had stolen in and opened the close door, when the skeleton had confronte him, falling against the door. The fel-low was probably a sneak-thief, and the skeleton saved the doctors best cost. And now the street boys have it that the build-ing is haunted."
